

ELECTION 2024

Sustainable Transportation Advocates React to the Trump Victory

Some sustainable transportation advocates took to social media following the election to share their fears — and hopes — for life under the next administration.

By Kea Wilson

9:50 PM EST on November 6, 2024

Photo: CC

We're not going to sugarcoat it; most sustainable transportation advocates on our timeline seem pretty devastated by the results of last night's presidential election, with many too stunned by the result to make significant public statements on Wednesday.

Hayden ✓

@the_transit_guy

...

Well, we shall persist. I'm gonna step back and figure out how to advocate for the future of transit and cities given the direction this country clearly wants is antithetical to that. Give me some time to figure it out.

12:14 AM · Nov 6, 2024 · 39.7K Views

A few, though, took to social media to share how they're refocusing around state, regional, and local politics, even if they're not optimistic about the federal outlook.

Tony Jordan @tonyjordan.bsky.social · 32s

Know this. Your city council is still going to meet. Your state and local politics are quite accessible. Don't give up or cede the opportunities you have to build better and stronger communities.

Via Bluesky.

That doesn't mean that they didn't take a little time to grieve — especially the important vehicle safety measures that some fear are likely DOA in a GOP-lead Washington.

David Zipper @davidzipper.bsky.social · 5h

A Trump presidency means the feds won't be restraining car bloat. This NHTSA proposal looks doomed.

The path for reform now goes through states and cities, where officials can impose fees on the heaviest cars, outlaw truck lifts, and give smaller cars preferential parking.

bsky.app/profile/davi...

David Zipper @davidzipper.bsky.social · 1mo

Finally, the Biden administration is taking a stand against car bloat.

NHTSA has proposed banning SUV/pickup hood designs that are especially likely to cause head injuries.

In Fast Company, I explained why this could be a watershed moment. 🧵 www.fastcompany.com/91195993/car...

1

12

78

The victory of 19 out of 25 of the transit measures on state and local ballots, though, was at least a bit of a balm ...

Via Bluesky.

...even if the same people praising them were realistic about how a Trump presidency might cloud those silver linings.

Via Bluesky.

Some, though, urged their fellow advocates not to abandon hope – and to start strategizing about how they could make their place better in the next four years.

Via X.

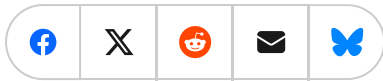

That includes taking full advantage of the next two months to push forward whatever sustainable policies we can under the current federal administration.

Via X

More than anything, though, many advocates are urging each other to keep dreaming of a better world — or at least a better neighborhood.

Via Bluesky

Kea Wilson

Kea Wilson is Senior Editor for Streetsblog USA. She has more than a dozen years experience as a writer telling emotional, urgent and actionable stories that motivate average Americans to get involved in making their cities better places. She is also a novelist, cyclist, and affordable housing advocate. She lives in St. Louis, MO. For tips, submissions, and general questions, reach out to her at kea@streetsblog.org, or on Bluesky @keawilson.bsky.social.

Read More: DONALD TRUMP | ELECTION 2024 | ELECTIONS | ELECTIONS AND POLITICS

Stay in touch

Sign up for our free newsletter

SIGN UP

Streetsblog has migrated to a new comment system. New commenters can register directly in the comments section of any article. Returning commenters: your previous comments and display name have been preserved, but you'll need to reclaim your account by clicking "Forgot your password?" on the sign-in form, entering your email, and following the verification link to set a new password — this is required because passwords could not be carried over during the migration. For questions, contact tips@streetsblog.org.

More from Streetsblog USA

AI

Where the Battles Against Harmful Highways and Hyper-Scale Data Centers Collide

Kea Wilson September 22, 2026

CAR CRASHES

I Survived the Santa Monica Farmer's Market Crash

Melissa H. Cronin September 22, 2026

TODAY'S HEADLINES

Tuesday's Headlines Are a Speed Trap

Blake Aued September 22, 2026

BUSES

What Would It Take to Get 'Fast, Free Buses' Nationwide?

Kea Wilson September 21, 2026

BICYCLING

The Five Questions Every Community Should Ask Itself Before It Debuts a New Bike Path

Seth Lieber September 21, 2026

See all posts →

Covering the movement to end car dependency and improve biking, walking and transit in America.

Sign up for our free newsletter

Email

SIGN UP

Basics

- About Us
- Staff & Board
- Donate to Streetsblog
- Write For Streetsblog USA or
- Submit a Tip
- Job Listings
- Contact Us
- List an event on Streetsblog
- USA

