

DEMOGRAPHICS

PUBLIC HOUSING

Hoboken is home to a disproportionate quantity of subsidized and low-income housing. The city has more than three times the number of HUD-subsidized Housing Units (46 per 1,000 population compared to 13 in the North Jersey NJTPA region), more than five times the number of Public Housing Units (27 compared to 5), and almost three times the number of Multi-Family Housing Units (16 compared to 6) compared to the region.

POVERTY RATES

Hoboken has slightly higher rates of poverty (10.1%) than the North Jersey region (8.6%). This trend extends to families with children, which have higher rates of poverty (6.3%) compared with the region (5%) as a whole.

ACCESS TO TRANSPORTATION

Transit is important to the mobility needs of residents in Hoboken, who have a higher percentage of carless households (15.7%) than Hudson County (13.7%) and the North Jersey region (12.5%).

One of the Plan's most significant concerns is identifying the people and assets that are most in need of protection. With the presence of Hoboken Housing Authority's Andrew Jackson Gardens and the Columbian Arms Senior Living Community in sewershed H1 and the Hoboken Housing Authority in sewershed H4, the City's most vulnerable populations are concentrated in the City's most flood prone areas. As such, implementation of green infrastructure in these areas has the greatest potential to address the areas frequently impacted by flooding. This will also have the potential to significantly improve the of life for Hoboken's most vulnerable residents.

"HOPES applauds the city's focus on positively affecting the Blue Zone; the most heavily impacted areas for flooding with most vulnerable populations, as cited in the report and looks forward to the continued growth of the city and its residents."
